

Plan a story. Bring it home.

A reusable, fillable workbook for one outing and one finished travel film.

Use on your phone or laptop, or print the pages you need.

- 1. Choose one clear story before packing.
- 2. Plan five purposeful shots and the sound that connects them.
- 3. Record what actually happens; adapt rather than force the story.
- 4. Back up the footage, then build one complete sequence.

Film title / destination

Shoot date / target finish date

One sentence: what should the viewer feel or understand?

How to use this workbook

Save a new copy for each outing. Some browser PDF viewers do not save form edits.

Open in a PDF reader and test saving one field before filling everything in.

This is a planning template, not a location guide or filming permission.

Examples are illustrative; replace them with your own observations.

One outing. One story.

Make the idea specific enough to finish.

Opening question or moment

Three story beats: arrival / discovery / reflection

What must I capture to tell this story?

Location, access permission and weather checks

Simpler alternative if conditions change

Sample includes the opening and story-planning pages.
